We seek to inspire a community of empathy and have a responsibility to recognize the ways in which we benefit from colonization, both historical and ongoing. A Land Acknowledgment is a formal statement that recognizes and respects Indigenous Peoples as traditional stewards of this land and celebrates the resilience and strength that all Indigenous people have shown worldwide.

We acknowledge that in Central Ohio, we are on the traditional homelands of the Shawnee, Potawatomi, Delaware, Miami, Peoria, Seneca, Wyandotte, Ojibwe, and Cherokee Indigenous nations who have strong ties to these lands. Today, individuals from a broad range of Indigenous backgrounds call Columbus and central Ohio home.

We recognize generations who contributed their traditions, hopes, and spirit to make the history that led to this moment. While some have lived on this land for more generations than can be counted, others arrived here hoping for a better life, while others were forcibly taken and brought here against their will. Acknowledging the truth of these realities is critical to building mutual respect and connection.

A NOTE FROM THE DIRECTOR

I would have never imagined being the 90s kid watching Doug, Hey Arnold, Rugrats, and my all time favorite Bebe’s Kids and making that the inspiration behind The Worries of Wesley. Even though they were cartoons, they helped me cope and helped me to learn about life. How to treat others and how to treat myself.

The Worries of Wesley (Or: How I Learned to Stop Having Anxiety, or Not Really, But I Am Trying) is the very same for audiences today. The goal is not to hit people over the head with how to cope with anxiety but how do we live and breathe with it and help each other through it, together.

Wesley can be seen in each and everyone of us. And we must all remember that perfection doesn't exist and it's all about progress. With the help of her friends and family and a couple of puppets, you and Wesley will go on a journey together in order to find your own way of dealing with life when it just gets a little too overwhelming.

Thank you for joining this amazing cast and crew and I hope you laugh, learn, smile, grow and take home these lessons you see today. Talk about your own experiences with each other, work together to help your friend, child, teacher, neighbor, and parent; be comfortable and open to talking about their feelings. And when it can be all too much, don't forget to take it one day at a time and remember to breathe!

Revenue from ticket sales covers only about 60% of what it costs to produce high quality, professional theatre for you. Your additional support allows us to create thoughtful and engaging experiences both on and off our stages.

By making an investment in The Contemporary today, you are supporting our mission to produce high-quality, relevant theatre, by hiring local talent. In addition, we engage students of all ages across the community with our educational programs.

As you challenge us to DO BETTER, THINK DEEPER, and laugh louder, we hope that we inspire you to do the same.
